Torture & Police Violence: Torture and police brutality are illegal under international and domestic law but are practiced throughout the world, even in democratic countries. This course begins with case studies of torture by the police in late 20th century Chicago, torture in US-occupied Iraq in the early 21st century, and police violence against African-Americans in contemporary times. It then uses theories from sociology, criminology and social psychology to explain why and how torture and police violence happen. Additional readings examine the history and law of torture, the effects of torture on survivors, perpetrators and societies, and possible solutions to prevent and abolish torture.

 THIS SECTION OF SOCI 395 DOES COUNT TOWARD THE CRIMINOLOGY CERTIFICATE **

Please contact Kristie Crane at kristieb@niu.edu to discuss enrollment permission.

The flowering of art and architecture in Europe after the year 1000 is conventionally referred to using the terms Romanesque and Gothic. In this course we will address the origin, meaning and usefulness of these terms. We will consider the roles of pilgrimage, monasticism, and the papacy in shaping architecture during the eleventh and twelfth centuries, the origin of the style called Gothic in the Île de France, the age of great cathedrals, the luxury arts -- both religious and secular -- and the spread of this style from France to other European centers. ARTH 320D satisfies PLUS (Society and Culture) and Gen Ed (Humanities and the Arts) requirements.

This course explores the broad and diverse traditional arts of sub-Saharan Africa and Black Diasporic Art. Students will unpack this museological categorization and discover the variety across Pan-African visual forms through a thematic exploration. We will critique the narrative of Western Primitivism and progression, demonstrating the syncretic exchange between European and African forms occurring for centuries before Modern Art.

This course examines concepts of identity, debates about the personal and social character and construction of identity, the politics of identity, and current rejections of those politics, as they manifest in visual art and film from the mid-nineteenth century to now. We will build a comprehensive knowledge of different concepts of identity with readings beyond art history (e.g., Foucault's concepts of authorial and sexual identities, Hebdige on subculture, Girl culture).

The arts of Southeast Asia reflect a great variety of religions inextricably linked with the natural world which surrounded them: whether through traditional themes or contemporary artistic and exhibition practice which utilize materials from the immediate environment. This topic will be elaborated through ways in which the countries of mainland and insular Southeast Asia culture and society have interacted in the past, and respond today to the environment through varied modes of artistic creation and self-expression. This course will explore classical architecture, sculpture, painting, and prints; and more recently, contemporary film and performance pieces: revealing how artists have engaged with nature on issues of religion; reflecting on post-conflict aesthetics, delineating identities towards offering more nuanced and complex expressions of the human condition. Our goal here is to analyze how art embodies the co-evolution of social, cultural, and physical complex landscapes of Southeast Asia.

Additional per credit hour regional fee will be assessed.

The 15th century in Italy was a time of intense creativity and innovation. This course explores the culture and the visual arts produced during this period.

The lectures will proceed roughly chronologically, and the focus will be on individual artists and their accomplishments. The course will focus on the main centers of artistic production (Florence, Venice, Rome) but will also explore more peripheral spaces (Mantua, Ferrara, Siena). There will be an emphasis on careful looking and detailed study of major works of art. Students will also have ample opportunity to practice articulating what they see and relating it to the historical and social contexts of the period, both in spoken and written form.

ARTH 330A satisfies PLUS (Society and Culture) requirements, is included in the Origins and Influences Pathway, and has been certified as "Writing Infused".
